The Custom House Investigation-The Question - The Politic Greatly Alarmed - Triumph of the Friends of Moderate Tariff, etc.

[Special to the N. Y. Tribune.] WASHINGTON, May 8. - The government printing office is now rapidly turning out the testimony in the New York custom house investigation. The evidence is all in

The commission will hold a meeting for the purpose of determining the nature of its report. If Congress adjourns on the 29th, as now seems probable, it is doubtful if either the reports of the commission will be ready to be laid before the Senate before the last hours of the session, and therefore there will be no opportunity for discussing them, or offer legislation to reform the abuses which have been discovered by the invesward Taylor, of Indianapolis, was robbed on Monday night of six thousand dollars, on tigation. Mr. Voorhees's bill was further discussed by the House Judiciary Committee yesterday, but no final conclusion was reached.

There is now little probability of any leg islation upon the Mormon question getting through Congress this session.

[Special to the Cincinnati Commercial.] Practical legislation has ended for this se ion, whether Congress adjourns this month or not. As reports come in from the various portions of the country, both from Demo-cratic and Liberal Republican sources, indorsing the Cincinnati nominee, the convic tion here becomes more profound that a po-litical crisis is at band. In conversation with your correspondent to-day, Senator Trumbull expressed his enthusiastic approval at the Cincinnati ticket, and said that those who brought it forward build ad wiser than they knew. "Whether," said he "the Democrats ratify that nomination or not, and whether Grant is renominated at Philadelphia or not, the backs of both par ties have been broken and a new political party has been created. The war of disintegration is now commen-cing in the President's Court. Before the Cincinnati Convention, whoever discussed the feasibility of nominating any other can-cidate than Grant at Philadelphia was placed under the ban of party displeasure and advised to leave the regular Republican organization, or else be read out. A new era has dawned in this particular respect. Even Colfax mildly suggests that some steps be taken to prevent a political disruption, while compromise candidates are suggested on all hands.

Hanry Wilson has an opinion that he himself could prevent political disintegration, while Colfax is understood as being impressed with the conviction that his name at Philadelphia would have the same effect.

Messrs. Chandler and Conkling are now about the only well known politicians in either House of Congress who are in favor of a vigorous civil and domestic war on the Cin-cinnati nominess and all who support them. As showing the state of feeling here, in political circles, it may be stated that a rumor was set afloat early this morning, to the effect that Boutwell had placed his resignation in the hands of the President, and that the latter had now had it under consideration several days. In the absence of the Secretary, and his well known custom of keeping nominations were hourly growing in strength and that the only way out of defeat was to nominate some new man at Philadelphia. The four candidates principally canvassed were Blaine, Boutwell, Colcanvassed were Blaine, Boutwell, Col-fax and Henry Wilson. Forney, who was present, suggested that the Republican party could not afford to make the personal ware-fare upon Greeley which had already been inaugurated, and for one he would not con-sent to participate in it with his paper. He believed in Greeley's honesty and earnestness, and always admired him. It was sug-gested that a consultation be had with the President for the purpose of having a free understanding with him on the political situation and the dangers which now menaced the Republican party. Henry Wilson is among those who fully realizes the danger of the present situation, and will also favor a change of base at Philadelphia. These conferences now seem to be the order of the day, and emphatically indicate with what seriousnes hat nomination has now come to be considered which was at first regarded as a stupenlous joke.

There was an exciting struggle over the tariff to-day, in the House, which resulted in the most remarkable and complete parlia-the patient was slightly easier to-day, they mentary victories that have been won within are not unprepared for a rapid change for the memory of the oldest member on the floor. The Burchard-Finkelnburg bill was first slaughtered by a combination between the high protectionists and the representatives of the tobacco interest, arranged and led by Kelley—Dawes sitting by and seeing the work done with perfect tranquility; but as soon as the bill had been decapitated and was dead beyond all question. Dawes rallied the revenue reform and moderate tariff men and routed Kelley, and captured his tobacco allies and massacred his bill; he then had the field to himself, and got a new bill before the House embodying his own riews, and thus became at once master of the situation, with the leadership of the House again in his hands. The whole affair oc curred in less than two hours time. The struggle opened as soon as the House went into committee on the Tariff Bill. Kelley, who had completed his bargain with the tobacco men yesterday by agree-ing to carry his protectionist follow-ers in favor of a reduction of fifty ing to ers in per cent in the tax on tobacco, counted twenty-five recruits gained by this arrangement from the ranks of the free trade Democrats, and was confident of victory. He noved to strike out the enacting clause of the bill, and carried his motion on a vote by tellers by yeas 95, nays 75. The rules obliged the Committee of the Whole to forthwith rise and report the decapitation of the bill to the House. It was then in order to move to re-commit the bill to the Ways and Means Committee. This motion Mr. Kelley made, with instructions added that the committee should at once report back his bill as a substitute. He was too confident to be cautious, however, and forgot to de-reand the previous question. Mr. Dawes in-stantly perceived his opportunity, and moved to amend Mr. Kelley's motion by substituting instructions to report back the orig-inal bill of the committee, which had just been killed, with his amendments engrafted upon it making the reduction in tariff on manufacturers of iron, steel, copper, woolen, cottons, and several other articles, ten per

Mr. Finkelnburg moved to amend Mr. Dawes' amendment so as to make the reduction twenty per cent. His motion was lost by a vote of 79 to 110, Mr. Kelley throwing his combination solidly against it. When the question recurred on Mr. Dawes' motion, Kelley's tobacco recruits became demoralsed. They feared to go back to their antiprotection constituents with a record of having voted against the small reduction of ten per cent, of tariff, and, after wavering a little, they turned their backs on Kelley and deserted to Dawes in a body. The ultra revenue reformers saw their chance of revenging themselves upon Kelley, and rallied to the support of Dawes' motion, which was carried by a vote of 111 to 77.

Kelley was astonished at the unexpected result. He said that some of the members did not understand the question, and rushed over to the Democratic side to find out what was the matter with his new allies. found that they had abandoned him with their eyes open and not through ignorance and returned to his seat with an expression of discomfiture that raised a general laugh-ter, in the midst of which Garfield said "the trade is gone up." It required another vote to complete Dawes's victory, and this he carried by 117 ayes to 75 noes, forthwith reported back his amended bi forthwith reported back his amended by accordance with the vote of instruction in in gave notice that he should colling it up to mortriumph, has completely turned the tables antagonists on the Ways and alike the high tariff men and the Free Traders willed both their bills and instead of hears will all the state of the second seco ers, killed both their bills, and instead of be ing a guerrilla skirmishing with the Kelley and Burchard factions, he now controls the field, and both factions are anxious to serve under his command.

The bill he has now before the House, is, in its tariff provisions, nearly identical with the bill the Senate passed some weeks ago, which the House tabled, and is almost beyond question substantially the legislation upon the tariff which will be finally adopted by both houses before the session ends through Grant's second term only can they carry the Republican party with safety, said to-day that he feared a contest with Greeley more than any other man in the country. It is the theory that all Presidential contests are carried through on personal grounds, and that while Grant has none of the elements of personal popularity, Greeley has them all. He says Grant has long since killed off all popular enthusiasm, and that particularly in Pennsylvania his name causes is open to the Democracy. If its counsels are to the Democracy and produce its national to the produce the Cincinnati nominations, or should declare the inexpedency of making any nominations at all, in view of the opportung the its counsels. If further says that the Philadelphia Convention will place Grant at its head, although he could as wellbe nominated by the voice of the people without any convention at all. Sensible Letter from a Democratic Judge—The Chicago Times on the Situation-Excitement Among Steamboat

CHICAGO, May 8. - Judge Caten, one of the nost prominent Democrats in the State has written a letter in response to inquiries, in which he says, that although the Democrats were disappointed in the results of the Cincinnati Convention, they must not separate their duty as Democrats from their duty as citizens and patriots, and that it is perfectly demonstrated that every vote withheld from Mr. Greeley is practically a vote for Mr. Grant. He refers to the fact that a plurality can not elect a President, and that if there are three candidate, neither of whom there are three candidate, neither of whom has a majority over the whole of them, the House of Representatives must elect, as in 1824. Mr. Grant has an overwhelming maority in the House, and therefore his elec-

The writer calls on the laborer and reform party not to sacrifice Davis and Greeley in the hopeless struggle, but to unite with the Democrats and Liberals on Greeley. He says the old issues which kept the Democratic party together were dead, and its friends should turn to the new party as the expenent of reform and progress.

The Times this morning has editorials arguing that the nomination of Greeley has completely disrupted the Republican party and developed a disposition to throw Grant overboard, and says the true policy of the Democrats tomaintain the attitude of mastery inactivity as becomes men whose votes will elect the next President, who, it says, in advance, will not be Grant.

The Duluth Dybe Broken.

Madison, Wis., May 7.—Gov. Washburn has received notice that the water in the St. Louis river has broken through the dyke built along that river, and the water is rushng through the canal across Minnesota Point into the lake, threatening such destruction as will entirely destroy Superior harbor. He has taken prompt action to protect Wisconsin interests. The story that the Superior folks had blown up the dyke is a Duluth fabrication.

THE Electoral College this year will consist of 357 votes, of which the former slaveholding States will have 134 votes, the Western States 102, the New England and Middle States 109, and the Pacific States 12 votes. The vote of the Southern States, with that of New York and Pennsylvania, would give Mr. Greeley a very handsome majority.

THE Germans in this vicinity don't take kindly to Mr. Greeley. They don't like Grant, but Adams was their candidate. On the contrary the Irish wouldn't have touched Adams but go full length for Greeley. The colored vote of the South, however, will be the controlling element in the election this year, and the man who gets that will be President.

Tax municipal elections throughout the State yesterday generally resulted in Republican victories, which ought to convince the Democracy that the majority of the people are still against them, and will be as long as they hold to their present principles and organization. A few more Bourbon utterances like Voorhees's last will sink the party out of sight.

THE reform in New York which started out so well does not seem to have accomplished much in the way of punishing the Tammany thieves. THE result of the city election yesterday is very encouraging to Republicans. and the Democrats are correspondingly depressed. Some valuable lessons might to be gained from a close examination of the contest, the chief among which is that if either party puts up a bad man in a close ward he is likely to be beaten. For some reasons Mr. Brown's defeat in the Sixth Ward is to be regretted, for he has been one of the best Councilmen we have ever had, and his services have been of great value to the city. That such a man should be beaten, however, shows the regard in which his opponent is held. It is a little singular that the total vote should have been larger than that cast last year, have been larger than that cast last year, when probably every vote in the city was polled, for hundreds did not vote yesterday. We are afraid that our expression of hope for a fair election was thrown away in one or two of the wards.

A Board of Underwriters.

Insurance is as much a commodity as sugar and salt. It is not a vague intangible thing whose value can not be accurately determined and which is subject to the most capricious charges, but an article whose worth is fixed by established laws. Circumstances occasionally cause its value to vary to a small extent. but this is only in special cases. As a general thing, however, the cost is nearer fixed than that of any staple article, but the selling price of no other thing, in such great demand, varies so much. Statistics show that a certain proportion of a certain kind of buildings among a large number will burn, and that the risk divided among them all is a certain amount. To be added to this is the cost of managing a company, securing its business and a small profit and we have the selling price of insurance. The competition for busi-ness, however, particularly among new companies, has for years had a tendency to reduce the selling price to less than cost. Companies anxious to make a bustness have written at very low rates, in the hope of scratching through without loss and securing a renewal of their risks at better figures. Others, better established. perhaps, seeing their business leaving them have followed this snicidal policy, based upon speculation and trusting entirely to luck, and in consequence have demoralized the whole business of insurance. No company can afford to sell insurance at less than cost for a very long time, and if a succession of disasters come that time is usually very short. The Chicago fire, utterly unexpected and unprecedented, caught many of the companies whose business had been conducted on this plan, and the consequence was the loss of hundreds of thousands of dollars. We have no hesitation in asserting that, if all the companies that went down with Chicago had conducted their business in a safe and honest manner, getting a fair value for what they gave, not one in ten would have succumbed

After the Chicago fire there was a general disposition among underwriters to advance rates to a safe point, and many of them did so, but the temptation to 'cut" and the force of habit have been too much for some of them, and we now see a continuation of this ruinous policy. Business men, too, are much to blame. They have been educated in a bad school. and in placing insurance, in ninety-nine cases out of a hundred, look more to the cost than to the security. Of what value is it to get a policy at half rates if the company can pay nothing in case of loss? or if it is likely the company will be in bankruptcy before the policy expires? Most people would say none at all; and yethundreds of them act exactly to the contrary, and if a thoroughly sound company charges more than a "wild cat," or one whose security is not so certain, the sound company seldom gets the risk. The insurance interest is one 'of the largest in the country, and anything seriously affecting it affects the whole country. If companies continue to sell at less than cost ruin is inevitable, and the loss will fall directly upon the people. The people, therefore, are interested in sustaining companies doing business honorably, and will find it to their advantage to pay a just price. It is an encouraging sign that the companies themselves are fully aroused to a realization of this truth, and are preparing to make "a new departure" in favor of honesty and safe business. If they can succeeed in doing this it will place the business upon a stable basis, the same as banking or selling merchandise, and will profit both themselves and their customers. A large majority of the companies have united in instructing their agents in every city and town to form a local Board of Underwriters, who shall fix the rates by which all are to be governed. These rates all agents will be compelled to adhere to, and the purchaser of insurance will have the satisfaction of knowing that he is paying no more than anybody else, while the companies are receiving a fair price. Such an organization is now being formed in this city, and we hope to see it meet with success. The companies rates, they simply wish to get the worth of their article and put an end to the destructive practice of "cutting rates." To customers this promises additional security, and, in many cases, a saving of money and time, for with established rates business man will not have to spend two or three days to see where he can buy the cheapest. Such an arrangement is the only safe one both for the companies and the community. It remains to be seen esty on the part of an agent may result in breaking up the whole project. Boards have failed heretofore from this same cause, although it is fair to say that the movement was never before started under such favorable auspices, and with the co-operation of so many companies.

A man went into Loring's coffee room the other day and called for a glass of French coffee. He had evidently just come in from the suburbs, and had on his new suit; his hair was long and his features sharp and thin; his looks bordered on the eadaverous. "Why, met a friend out here jest now, he's a grocer and in conversation he told me tea and had been placed on the free list, and he told me he'd jest come from Loring's, where he got a tip-top cup of it. He didn't say anything about paying for it, and I supposed it was free here; but," he added, thoughtfully, "it's worth ten cents, anyway, and I won't dicker." So saying, the stranger pulled his calfskin, tendered his scrip, and left, wondering, as he walked slowly out, what on airth that grocer meant by saying that tea and cof-fee were on the free list.—[Boston Times.

The Story of the Unfortunate Jones. He lived near a railroad bridge, and he anxiously watched and waited for it to wash away, feeling sure it must go sometime. Every rainy night he got up and paced the floor by spells, and then took his umbrella and went out to see if the bridge was begin

THE LIBERAL MOVEMENT. An Administration Paper's Opinion of It-A Wonderful Success-The Birth of a New Party.

[From the New York Herald of Tuesday.] The first great and decided movement in he Presidential campaign has been made. The action of the Cincinnati Convention has suddenly aroused the public mind and has produced something like an electrical effect. Few had anticipated such a result. The gathering of a sort of mass meeting of disaffected Republicans and Republican reformers from all parts of the country was watched with more curiosity than serious thought. pression that the improvised Cincinnati as-semblage might make a considerable diver-sion in the Republican party, and that if a union could be formed with the still powerful Democratic party there would be a chance of defeating General Grant. This was about all that was expected. This was the hope of nearly all opposed to the administration and the re-election of the President. Though the Democrats took no part directly in the Cincinnati Convention, they stood looking and waiting anxiously for a result they could endorse and with which they could co-operate. But this mass meeting assumed the proportions of an important and independent convention. It was conducted admirably and with great ability. Every hour after the delegates ar rived and the proceedings commenced it showed more and more strength of character and purpose. Rarely has any national po-litical convention exhibited as much ability and harmony or ever finished its work with more promptness, spirit and unanimity. In the principles and objects proclaimed, in the judicious choice of candidates for President nd Vice President, and from the manner in which these have been accepted by the pub lic, this Cincinnati gathering appears to have given birth all at once to a new and formida ble party. This party has the advantage, too, of being first in the field. This movement places both the administration and Democratic parties in a quandary. We see that in the tone of the press and expressions of partisan politicians. The Grant people, or those who pretend to be the friends of the President, the office-holders, the administration Congressmen and the ad ministration newspapers, affect to laugh at the nomination of Horace Greeley, though any shrewd observer can see that it is a forced melancholy laugh. The weak ad-ministration organ in this city, particutarly, is very uneasy, while pretending to be perfectly composed and satisfied.

As the old saying goes, none are so blind as those who will not see. A political revo lution has just been inaugurated, and thes rampant partisans are either too dull to per ceive it or wilfully shut their eyes. With the Democrats it is different. They have sa gacity enough to comprehend the importance of the movement and the nomination of Greeley and Brown. But they are embar-rassed. Willing to go far and make some sacrifices to defeat General Grant and to change the personnel and policy of the government, they find it hard to accept Horace Greeley, who has been through life their bitter opponent, and whose views on the conomical questions of the tariff, free trade and protection are opposed to theirs. Can General Grant see the importance of the Cincinnati movement? He ought to learn from that how much his popularity has been and is waning. He, undoubtedly, is honest, and means to do the best for the country; but he has trusted others who have misled him and brought his administration into public disfavor. The people are weary and disgusted with the Washington Treaty muddle and the want of national dignity and statesmanship exhibited over the Alabama claims difficulty. They feel the country is being humiliated, and that England has managed to get the advantage of us in the whole of that business. The disgraceful and painful condition of affairs in the Southern States, the tendency of the government to Ontside of or affection for it. For General Grant personally the people still have much respect, but little ittle or none for his Unless he changes his administration. less he removes Mr. Fish, and, by the appointment of Mr. Washburne or some such able man to the State Department, so as to give a high American tone to all our transactions with foreign nations, and particular ly in the management of our delicate rela tions with Great Britain, he will lose more and more public confidence. Finding his popularity declining, the Philadelphia Convention even might consider the propriety setting him aside, and either accept the ncinnati nominees or enter into an agreement with them to take up new men acceptable to all Republicans. Politicians do not stick long to a sinking cause. Now is the time or never for General Grant to boldly take the responsibility of changing the course of his administration. The tide of a political revolution has set in against him, and his own hand alone can stop its progress. From the New Orleans Picavune. If the Democratic Rourhons will not invi tating the wise men of Gotham, take to boat and thrust in their old splintered ear, we can all say that we are Republicans, that we are for the Union as it was reinaugurated under the Appomattox apple tree, that we are for the suppression of caste and race in politics, in civil attributes, in common carrying accommodations—in one word, that we are for all rights for all. If this Republican universalism offers a hopeful departure from the organized misery of the political situation, then the Democratic party will render the most patriotic service of which it is capable by lying down and keeping quiet in the coffin which has been waiting and yearning for it these many, many days. The Israelite Population of the Earth

A German official statement, published in Berlin during the month of February, 1872, supplies some interesting particulars as to the present dispersion of the Jews over the world. In Palestine they have long been reduced to a very small proportion of their former numbers. They are now most numberous in the northern part of Africa, be tween Morocco and Egypt (where, especially in the Barbary States, they form the chief element of the population,) and in that strip of Europe which extends from the Lower Danube to the Baltic. In the latter region there are about 4,000,000 Jews, most of whom are of the middle class, among the Sclavonic nationalities, while in the whole of Western Europe there are 100,000 of them. In conse uence of European migrations, descendants of these Jews have settled in America and Australia, where they "are already multiplying in the large commercial towns in the same manner as in Europe, and much more rapidly than the Christian population." The Jewish settlers in North Africa increasing so are also they constantly spread further south. Timbuctoo has, since 1858, to the south. Timbuctoo has, since 1858 been inhabited by a Jewish colony of trader The other Jews in Africa are the Falaschas or Abyssinian black Jews, and a few Euro pean Jews at the Cape of Good Hope. There are numerous Jewish colonies in Yemen and and Nedschran, in Western Arabia. It has long been known that there are Jews in Persia and the countries on the Euphrates; in the Turcoman countries they inhabit the tan and Urta Kurgan, and thirty small villages, residing in a separate quarter, but treated on an equal footing with the other inhabitants, though they have to pay higher taxes. There are also Jews in China, and in Cochin China there are both white and black taxes. There are also Jews in China, and in Cochin China there are both white and black Jews. The white Jews have a tradition, according to which, in the year 70 A. D., their ancestors were 10,000 Jews who settled at Cranganore, on the coast of Malabar, after the destruction of the Temple of Jerusalem. The Jews remained at Cranganore until 1565, when they were driven into the interior by the Portuguese. The black settlers are sup-posed to be native proselytes, and have a special synagogue of their own.

In the Old World, it has been held that suicide was a crime, and unsuccessful attempts have been punished. Not long since in Detroit, a man was fined five dollars for making a fizzle. This is the first instance of the kind we have noticed in the United States. When a man insures his life for the benefit of his wife and children, and under the influence of an insane impulse takes his life, it will be a difficult matter to make a jury decide that the innocent family shall suffer, no matter what lawyers may say or judges rule. Right or wrong, such is the tendency .- [St. Louis Review.

The St. Louis Review, advocating a na tional insurance law, says: "Certainly this is a subject which may well enlist not only the sympathies, but the active energies of the best minds in the profession. The obstacles and jealousles to be overcome are im-mense, and at the outside appear formidable, but there is a spark of sentiment in the favor with which national banks are regarded, which will largely, if not finally overcome many of the difficulties which now beset the The whole thought and wish of the people is taking a national direction, and while the doctrines of State Rights yet have their advocates, very few persons would to-day give up the present national currency for the old, uncertain issues of the different States.

A Lesson for Feonomical Husbands.

Mat. Lewis speaks, in his Journal of a West India Planter, of two sharks which were frequently seen in Black River harbor. playing around the ships. ngth the female was killed, and the desolation of the husband was excessive. What he did without her remains a secret, but what he did with her was plain enough. Scarcely was the breath out of her body, when the teeth of her masculine companion were employed, and he began to eat her up with the utmost expedition. Even the sailors felt their sensibilities aroused by such a peculiar mark of posthumous attachment. To enable him to perform his melancholy duty more easily. they resolved to act in the capacity of car-vers, and lowered a boat and proceeded to chop her deceased ladyship to pieces. The widower opened his jaws as wide as possible, and gulped down pounds after pounds of the dear departed as fast as they were thrown to him with the greatest delight and avidity. Doubtless while he was eating he was thoroughly persuaded that every morsel which entered his stornech want directly to his his stomach went directly to his heart! "She was perfectly consistent," he said to himself, "she was excellent through life, and really she is extremely good, now that she is dead." There is but one case in the annals of Hymen which will favorably compare with the above. A missionary had conversing with a savage upon the Fast Line great sin of polygamy. For eighteen months the Board has spent its time in wrangling, without coming to any conclusion upon any subject. Its members have failed to divide into any two parties, but have formed a dozen, each one insisting on its own way, and succeeding in nothing. The Board have not even been able to agree on a reading book. No schools have been established, and the ablest men in the Board have resigned in disgust. If the majority plan of voting had been adopted, the strongest party would have carried through some plan, and would have long ago had the schools in operation. Minority rep resentation in this case has scarcely met the expectations of its friends.

A Real Ghost in Pennsylvania. There is a ghost in a Pennsylvania coal

This particular ghost which has been seen and described as a stalwart form of six feet or more in hight, but unsubstantial and vapory. A few of the many reasons why the Citizens of Indianapolis and vicinity should patronise the Spencer Bouse Ticket Office:

Ist Because it is the only Ticket Office in the City of Indianapolis where the traveller can be furnished with any information in regard to the Shortest, Best and Quickest Routes from Indianapolis to all points, North, South, East and West.

2d. It is the only Railroad Ticket Office where you can be furnished with correct Time Cards of all the Ballroads centering here, showing distances, time of arrival and leaving, and connections of all trains running into the Union Depot.

3d. It is the only Office in the city where you can get Tickets at Reduced Rates to all points, where competition is offered by rival lines.

4th. It is the only Office where any inducement is offered to Emigration, either in Tickets or Freights; the only place where where any inducement is offered to Emigration, either in Tickets or Freights; the only place where you can get Tickets at all hours, or have them delivered to your house, office, or place of business, at all times, free of charge.

These are but a few of the many reasons that can be adduced why the citizens of Indianapolis and vicinity should support an outside or city office; and as we have undertaken this new enterprise in the face of the combined influences of the several Railroads centering here and the Union Depot Ticket Office, we can but simply beg the patronage of the travelling public, assuring you that the truthfulness of these suggestions can be seen upon investigation. It is not true that the talented General Ticket Agent, Lord, encompasses more proman in the West. "Old Whit" still lives; so does Finkbine.

George D Hand has resigned the Passenger Agency of the Peru Road, for business more congenial to his tastes. "Shorty" leaves with the full confidence and endorsement of the managers of that road.

Efforts are being made to enlist Conductor Egan, of the I., C. and L. Railroad, into the Sunday School movement. Johnny has the rare faculty of illustrating a point, and would make an admirable lecturer.

Sam. Havens, mail agent on the Junction did marry yesterday at Liberty, sure enough, and last evening went circulating westward on a bridal trip. Havens carries with him, in his new venture, the good wishes of an entire settlement.

Conductor McConney, of the I. B. & W., resides on Michigan street, and occasionally rides to the crossing of that street on the outward going Lafayette train. The other night he sprang off as usual near Michigan, but afterwards picked himself up in the neighborhood THE EVENING NEWS of North, with one shoulder sprained and the arm nearly useless. The Lafayette engineer was making up lost time as usual, hence the difficulty.

A Close Shave.

J. H. Russell, who probably furnishes more news to reporters in the way of accidents to himself than any other man in the West, yesterday narrowly escaped being crushed by a railway train, at the crossing of Pennsylvania street and the Union tracks. The horse he was driving was knocked down, and only his presence of mind saved Mr. R. from being thrown under the train. The accident was attributable to the neglect of the flagman in not giving the signal of danger, and he was afterwards as HUOH P. HANNA, of Fort Wayne, to-day rested by Mr. Russell and taken before Esq. Smock. The switchman was also made a party defendant in the complaint. The trial will come off to-morrow-the defendants desiring a postponement until that time.

> Orphans' Home. A lady sends us the notes below given of the regular monthly meeting of the Board of Managers of the Orphans' Home, and her publish entire. Friends generally will reeice heartily over the bright prospects ahead for that most worthy object of charity to which she refers:

The regular monthly meeting of the Board of Managers of the Orphans' Home was one of unusual interest. The complete success of their May Festival made every heart buoyant. In addition to the sum realized through the immediate exertion of the managers was sixty-five dollars and ten cents proceeds of the Dolly Varden Concert, the success of which was due to Mrs. Hedges, whose energy and perseverence made it a pleasant, successful affair; also twenty-five dollars from the Charity Society, represented by Mrs. McKernan, President, and Mrs. James Ryan Vice President. In the midst of the discussion of busin containing the snug sum of two hundred dollars, the result of these ladies' work during moved to rather 'noisy congratulations on the bright future of the Home. Our nett proceeds, so far, are $1,168 89, with our sewing machine to raffle off, for which we expect to get $100.

The Eighth Ward Election.

tory. Messrs. Whitsit, Heckman and the few others can the Germans and the Irish of the Eighth Ward thank for the antagonism that now exists, and that antagonism does exist none can deny. The history of all is brief: There were in the field representatives of the Irish, Germans and Americans, all eager for the nomination, but harmonious and intending to go hand in hand at the For reasons known only to the few, Mr.
Heckman, a German, saw fit to withdraw on the eve of the election, and instead of leav-

the eve of the election, and instead of leaving the field to the remaining candidates, you very officiously forced Mr. Hartman to become a candidate. I say forced, for I had it from his own lips that he would not have run for the nomination had it not been for that call. In thus inviting a German to the contest the Irish were justly incensed, as the estimate Council man was a German and any retiring Councilman was a German and supported by the Irish. In short, it seemed the Irish had no rights you were bound to respect, but were plainly told by you that "no Irish need apply." The consequence was, it ceased to be a question of Democracy but which were the street of the of Democracy, but which were the strongest, the Germans or the Irish. It proved that the Irish held the balance of power in the party, and Curran was nominated. As it had become a question of nationality, the Germans failed to vote as heretofore, and a Republican was elected; and I would now Republican was elected: and I would now say to the Democrats of the Eighth Ward, will you ever support any signer of that call for nomination on your ticket? They stirred up animosity that was entirely need-Ticket Agent, Lord, encompasses more pro-visions to the square inch than any railway I do not wish Mr. Hartman to think the writer has any ill will toward him. Far from it, for in him we recognize a true and tried Demecrat, but he has been the dupe of the clique. A VOTER.

> From a Well-Wisher. To the Editor of The Evening News.

I wish to say one word in praise of your evening paper. I have been a constant read-er, and I think for ability and honesty it is far ahead of any of our city papers, From the first it has asserted its independence; it has never cringed to any one party; it boldly speaks for the right, and fearlessly attacks wrong whenever and wherever it has cause to do so. And still it proudly stands up in the spirit in which it began, and yields to none. And if there is a good work to be done in the case of charity The News is never behind in offering to do what it can for the good of all. God bless it. And as sure as it has begun in right, so it will go on prospering and to prosper.
